28/03/2017

The 22nd Model of the United Nations in Havana (Havmun) kicks off today at the Main Auditorium with a wide program of lectures and working sessions of several agencies belonging to this international body.

This time, special panels from PAHO, United Nations Environment Program, and the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization will be held.

Participants will work in different commissions until Friday, March 31, where they will address subjects from the UN international agenda such as the food situation, social and economical development, environment, and human rights.

Havmun website highlights the tradition of the event, which emerged in 1996 at the University of Havana. This is a very academically prestigious event due to its scientific quality and serves as reference to other Latin American countries like Mexico, Argentina, Ecuador, and Venezuela.
