

Carlos Tévez Quits Chinese Football to Re-join Boca Juniors

08/01/2018

Argentine footballer Carlos Tévez rescinded his contractual relationship with Chinese club Shanghai Shenhua and everything was ready for his return to Boca Juniors.

The Apache and Shanghai reached an agreement to terminate the contract, so the player is free to sign for any team.

Daniel Angelici, president of Boca, said recently that it would take 'less than an hour' to hire Tevez, once he had put an end to his adventure through Chinese lands.

Therefore, it is expected that from one moment to another the return of Tevez to Boca Juniors is announced, the club that 'saw him be born' and led him to stardom.

After debuting at Boca Juniors as a professional footballer, the Argentine international played for Corinthians, West Ham, Manchester United, Manchester City, Juventus and Shanghai Shenhua.

He arrived in the Chinese club in January 2017, after signing an extravagant contract, which guaranteed a salary of 40 million dollars per season, thus becoming the highest paid player in the world.
