

Cuba eyes growing US arrivals

---

30/09/2018

Cuba confirmed that it was looking to see more arrivals from the United States to the Caribbean island nation.

The statement has been made by Cuban President Miguel Diaz-Canel during talks with representatives from a range of US sectors, such as the travel industry.

The Cuban president highlighted the necessity of meeting sectors with the interest of negotiations and good ties between his country and the US.

Diaz-Canel further added: "that has been precisely the fundamental peace message that we have brought."