

---

Messi Eyed by Argentina's Coach to Play Cup America

25/01/2019

Argentine soccer player Lionel Messi, at present member of Spanish team Barcelona, could be part of the national selection, from which he was excluded for the 2018 World Cup in Russia.

It was known through sources close to the whiteblue team that the coach, Lionel Scaloni had Messi in mind to play Argentina's friendly match against Venezuela scheduled for March 22.

If the news is confirmed, would dress the whiteblue shirt with the higher aim of the year's main goal, the Cup América that will be based in Brazil from June 14 to July 7.

Messi would not be the only one of those established to be called by Scaloni, as Paris Saint Germain midfielder Angel Di Maria, Manchester City striker Sergio 'Kun' Agüero, as well as his teammate Nicolás Otamendi, are included in the options he values the strategist facing the shock.

---