The renewed Cuban Carta Magna for which we will vote next February 24 defends the rights of boys and girls, but also those of youths, said today a specialist of the island.

On Sunday we will vote Yes for the continuity of the Revolution, because our children receive free attention in health, the right to education, expressed the director of the Academic Orthopaedic Hospital Fructuoso Rodriguez, Antonio Raunel Hernandez, in statements to Prensa Latina.

As directive of the sector, we will vote for health, for the possibility to attend our people free of charge as well as patients of other countries who come to ask our healing services for their illnesses, he underlined.

I have a very poor background and today I lead a hospital in this capital. This responsibility has made me work with great commitment and responsibility, he commented.

It calls my attention a word that is repeated once and again, innovation because Cuba needs to innovate in science and technology, he added.

Hernandez proudly celebrated the honor of having been a legislator for 10 years. In that stage I was able to vote for transcendent decisions of the National Assembly (parliament).

The also second-degree specialist in Orthopaedics and Traumatology advanced the área will be headquarters of a election station next February 24.

At this moment, we finish details to receive those persons that will exercise their right to vote, he informed.
