
Little Red Riding Hood and the Wolf: The Methods Change but the Classist Essence Remains

By: Alfonso Alonso Franquiz / Razones de Cuba
23/04/2024

They will return, again and again for us, above all because of the geopolitical desire to cover spaces, to dominate new areas of influence and to extract profits and strategic natural resources, which are part of the natural wealth of our people.

They will come with "Siren songs", and promising to bring us development and well-being, but be careful with the proposals: they are not reflected in them, how many will they take, how many quotas of power will they impose on us in exchange, how high will be our debt and, above all, will they hide from us how much we will lose National Sovereignty and to what extent we will become hostages of the policies of imperialism and its interests and its Geopolitical Global Power.

Behold, compatriots who are receiving, like everyone in this mediatic, globalized and neoliberal capitalist world, that avalanche of messages, where they "hide the ball" from us, the classist essence of economic power, political and cultural of the Bourgeoisie, of its hegemonism, militarism, media and diplomatic attacks, environmental depression, extortions of their financial transnationals, the role played by their intelligence services in espionage protected by NGOs, sent specials, façade of academics, of diplomatic services, of tourists, etc

In summary: This is a brief analysis of the global geopolitical panorama that now it's beginning to change towards global multipolarity and the Global and National Power of the Bourgeoisie and the essence of that power: The Dictatorship of Billionaires.

And so, the children's story of Little Red Riding Hood is poorly told by older people. In it the wolf appears all dressed up and posing, in a display of acting exorcism, like "the naive girl in the story" and where Little Red Riding Hood behind the disguise she is unaware of the jaws of its class enemy the "wolf" common of our people": Imperialism.

And the National Bourgeoisies and the forces of the right, grouped in political parties, along with the counterrevolution organized, advised and paid for by the political operators of the intelligence agencies and the Media Scoundrel makes easy money out of betraying the rights and interests and give them wealth to their people.

Translated by Amikal Labañino / CubaSí Translation Staff
