

Cuban Medical Brigade Began Work in Nepal

19/05/2015

Cuban health professionals have the mission of saving lives and helping alleviate the situation in the Asian country after the earthquake of last April 25th.

The Cuban medical brigade present in Nepal—which includes 49 members, of whom 25 are doctors of different specialties—continues its work in that nation hit by a powerful quake that left more than 8 thousand deaths.

A screenshot of a tweet from the account @CubahelpsNepal. The tweet features the Cuban flag as a profile picture and contains the following text: "The total number of patients seen by the Cuban Medical Brigade in Nepal stands at 997, with six surgeries performed. #CubahelpsNepal". Below the text is a "Details" link. The tweet is timestamped "2h".

CubahelpsNepal @CubahelpsNepal 2h
The total number of patients seen by the Cuban Medical Brigade in Nepal stands at 997, with six surgeries performed. #CubahelpsNepal
Details

Here are some images of Cuba's health workers in Nepal. Follow the account @CubahelpsNepal to get updates on their task.
