
Cuban Doctors have cared for more than 4,600 patients in Nepal

02/06/2015

The Cuban medical brigade has recorded 23 hospital admissions, 984 rehab procedures, 360 lab tests, 165 X-ray tests and 163 ultrasounds.

This group of physicians, 49 doctors of different specialties working in Nepal, continues to care for the people of a nation that suffered a strong earthquake last April 25th. To date, Cuban physicians have cared for 4,610 patients and 52 surgeries have been carried out.

These doctors belong to the Henry Reeve medical brigade, specialized in caring for people after devastating earthquakes, hurricanes, and flooding.
