
Ileana Ros-Lehtinen: Conspiring against Venezuela?

21/08/2015

Venezuelan president, Nicolás Maduro, revealed that, next to her buddy Marco Rubio she was involved in vandal acts that took place there during 2014.

"What Maduro said is another attempt of distraction to draw the attention far from the crisis that country lives" said the congressman.

Ros-Lehtinen tried cut down the strength to the accusation of the leader who exposed her link to the funds supply for the native extreme right.

According to her, "Venezuelans" know that their domestic economic difficulties are not attached to an overseas elaborate scheme.

She also attacked president Obama for not supporting her campaigns regarding supposed violations that are carried out in that South American nation.

It's upsetting she hadn't added more names (of Chavistas members) to the list of offenders, so they are denied entrance to the United States", she remarked.

However, all in all the life of Ileana Ros-Lehtinen corroborates her public adhesion to mischief and her generous relationship with terrorists.

A few examples will corroborate that, to guarantee it.

The almost incredible show of her fervent defense of terrorist Orlando Bosch Avila when in the late 80's of the last century Washington tried to expel them from the United States for his repeated terrorist actions.

On October 6, 1976, Bosch, next to Luis Posada Carriles, destroyed in mid flight a Cuban civil airplane with 73 people onboard.

On top of that, Mrs. Lehtinen has played the role without the tiniest modesty as "godmother" of other henchmen of politics against Havana, like Rodolfo Frómeta Caballero, head of the Comando F-4 gang.

Another very much alike, Eduardo Arocena Pérez, even when she has been part of the U.S. Congress.

Her service record also includes the complicity displayed in the kidnapping of the Cuban boy Elián González, a fact rejected by millions of Americans.

A separate file deserves one of those responsible for the coup d'état in Honduras, the dictator Roberto Micheletti, whom, when he had been isolated by almost the whole world, she visited him, even called him "president" and justified the coup.

Of course it must be included, when characterizing Ileana, the scene on Capitol Hill accusing without evidence Cubans "sent by Castro's régime" of having tortured in Vietnam 19 North American pilots.

Responsibility fell then on President William Clinton, who with a simple and not very spread press note, undo the lie.

Her permanent bond with those who finance and command the "dissidents" who are hired in Cuba it's an unmistakably example of an empty and frustrated cause.

The current normalization of diplomatic ties between Havana and Washington is a blunt blow that still keeps them a bit dizzy.

With that tight and generous background, can anyone doubt Mrs. Ileana is part of the current plot against Venezuela?

Of her existence remain the thick files, since her childhood when she was called Lily, until today, capable of revealing very interesting matters.
