Florida: Guns “Anywhere”

22/10/2015

Two State Senate commissions took over the proposition of authorizing the carrying of weapons even in educational centers.

A large widespread tendency in the United States reached the extreme in that southern territory.

Las Americas newspaper reported it last Monday remarking that it's the committees of Education and Criminal Justice.

The newspaper underlined that almost after 224 years of the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, when the right to possess weapons was granted, Florida can add another contradiction.

Now, it said, after an apparent shift backwards of those who oppose domestic weapon selling, tendencies that plead for its growth resurface.

Perhaps to fulfill the text of the Constitution? Las Americas newspaper answers it like this: in fact they pursue to satisfy economic interests.

It is very significant that it takes place in one from the most prone states to grant permits to carry firearms.

Also where there are one of the largest stocks of guns, revolvers, and shotguns, among other weapons.

But, in what country is this last event told? According to statistics “multiple” large shootings occur every seven days.

Although it's not everything, because even schools and other academic centers have been targets of noisy tragedies.

Another thorn on the side characterizes the law in discussion today in the Florida parliament insurance groups won't pay compensations linked to the carrying of firearms.

Will still be able Washington rulers to disassemble the wildest West that centuries ago spread throughout their national territory?

The hemorrhage of weapons that swarms there reminds the story of those who tried to put off a fire with gasoline.
