01/03/2016

Yosvany Montano Garrido, professor of Pinar del Rio Pedagogical School Tania The Guerilla, in his capacity as host of the text, said: "It defends the integrity and the many times severed questions which make the history true, attractive and useful."

In the presence of a selected audience composed of educators and college students, writers, directors of the Provincial Directorate of Culture and the general public, the author of Cuba Libre la Utopía Secuestrada said that "the text is a work narrated not with the intention of generating a rereading of history."

"The pages of the book are guided by a love for Cuba, its heroes and it extols the commitment", said Limias Díaz about his second book, from a project of four. The first one was Cuba Entre Tres Imperios.

The recent presentation in Pinar del Rio gives the possibility of having one corrected and synthesized version closer to non-specialized readers.

This does not mean putting aside the professionals of social sciences and related disciplines. Cuba Libre la Utopía Secuestrada is an enriched text from research, with text virtues such as: historical rigor, calm judgment, accurate management, cross and dialogues with diverse sources, besides clean and direct prose.
