Relations between the two countries improved after Putin came to power in 2000. On an official trip to Cuba in July 2014, the Russian leader announced plans to cancel 90 percent of the islands US$35 billion debt to Moscow. Raul branded the decision “another great, tangible generosity of the Russian people toward Cuba.”

Putin was also one of the first world leaders to pay his respects to Fidel on his 90th birthday back in August. "You enjoy deep respect in Russia as an outstanding statesman who devoted his entire life to serving the people of Cuba," he said.
