Following the news that has shocked celebrity watchers worldwide, we can confirm we have separated Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie's figures.

Pitt and Jolie - nicknamed "Brangelina" by fans - married in 2014, 10 years after meeting on the set of 2005 film Mr & Mrs Smith.

It was Pitt's second marriage, having previously wed Friends star Jennifer Aniston, and Jolie's third after actors Billy Bob Thornton and Jonny Lee Miller.

Singer Adele is among those to comment on the split, dedicating a concert in New York on Tuesday to the Hollywood couple.

The 28-year-old told an audience at Madison Square Garden she had been "shocked" by the news and that it felt "like the end of an era".

Jon Voight, Jolie's actor father, also expressed sadness, saying whatever caused the split "must have been pretty severe".

George Clooney, who worked with Pitt on Ocean's Eleven and its sequels, expressed surprise when asked about the matter.

"I feel very sorry to hear that," he told reporters at a United Nations event. "It's an unfortunate story about a family."

Billy Bob Thornton, however, made no comment at a Hollywood event honouring actress Kathy Bates on Tuesday.

The actor, who was married to Jolie from 2000 to 2003, left quickly afterwards, avoiding questions from waiting reporters.

Pitt and Jolie most recently worked together on 2015 film By the Sea, a relationship drama about a couple trying to repair their marriage.
