28/12/2016

Argentinean Diego Simeone received the Award for Best Head Coach at Club Level of the year 2016, an award annually given by the International Soccer Federation of Statistics and History.

Diego Simeone is still making history as head coach of Spanish team Atletico de Madrid, and now the team he coaches is an alternative to the power showed by other teams, such as the Real Madrid and FC Barcelona.

Simeone got 113 votes to get the award, beating coaches like French Zinedine Zidane (Real Madrid, 108 votes) and Italian Claudio Ranieri, from the Leicester City (England), who got 86 votes.

In the category of National Teams Portuguese Fernando Santos was the chosen one, since he led the Portuguese National team to the title of the Euro Cup this year.
